BRUNCH AT HOME

Sunday, May 7, 2017
The perfect gift for any spring celebration!

See pages 9 & 10 for all the details and clippable order form, or go to our homepage: princetonsenior.org.
“Their voices would change, they became the characters and suddenly the story came alive. They were pirates or wolves or princes and princesses; the world had slipped away. And so you might remember that special time when someone read aloud to you. “

We often find great impact in the simplest of things. Reading aloud is one of those “simple things.” Now research confirms what we sensed all along, that reading aloud is one of the most important steps in literacy. It enhances classroom instruction and has significant academic benefits.

Our GrandPals program is a learning and reading program pairing older adults with students in the Princeton Schools, and is centered on the wonderful activity of reading aloud. It is an opportunity to work within the community and make a significant and lasting impact on a youngster.

For the people involved, GrandPals is a wonderfully evolving story. Olivian Boon, the GrandPals Coordinator, said that she “loves the relationships that develop between the children and the GrandPals and among the GrandPals themselves. They share stories, get to know each other, delight in each other’s company, and in the company of authors and artists through the books they read.”

GrandPals is a joint program between the Princeton Schools and the Princeton Senior Resource Center. This program of reading to kindergartners started in 1997 at Littlebrook School. Riverside School adopted the program in 2006. The success of these programs encouraged us to expand to Community Park in 2012 (where the classes extend from pre-school through second grade), and to Johnson Park in 2015.

More than 100 GrandPals from Princeton and surrounding towns read at least once a week to approximately 250 children in 14 different classes. By the halfway point of this year, they had already volunteered more than 1460 hours of time with the children! The GrandPals range in age from 47 to 95. Some do multiple sessions. Although some have had previous teaching experience, many have not. Training and support are provided by Olivian Boon, Sallie Meade (Associate Coordinator), and school personnel. There is a strong partnership among the GrandPals, the teachers, and the school librarians.

The excitement of the school year begins when the teachers get the list of GrandPals who have signed up for their class. The teachers have gotten to know the GrandPals over the years, and are thrilled to see familiar names. They know which GrandPal they can assign to the shy child, to the overly active child, to the child who needs special encouragement, to the child who needs someone to listen to him.

The bonds between the children and the GrandPals are formed quickly. You can sense the excitement of the children when they come into the library and run towards their GrandPal, calling out to them. Many GrandPals comment that coming to GrandPals and being with the children is the highlight of their week. Their commitment to the children can be seen in the number of years some have devoted to this program.

For some children, whose families live far from grandparents, their GrandPal fills the role, even if it is only at school. As one child whispered to her GrandPal at the end of the school year, “Will you always remember me?”

One of the principals said, “The GrandPal program is not just an extra activity; it is an integral part of our school program that furthers the mission of our school.”

A teacher summed up the value of the program this way: “The GrandPals provide a calm person and a book, which is what children in this busy world really need.”

Another teacher commented as she looked around the library at all the groups reading, chatting, laughing, “Wonderful! Look at this. Who would say anything other than wonderful!”

As we celebrate our 20th anniversary, we look forward to many more years of reading, talking, and sharing that wonder. We welcome new volunteers. Come join us! Call Olivian at 609.924.7108.

A class on how to do compressions on an adult, using a mannequin, and learn how an AED works.
A few months ago, I received a phone call on a Saturday morning with shocking news. The caller said he represented Microsoft tech support, and they noticed that my computer had been compromised by some type of malware. “Oh my!” Except the caller wasn’t from Microsoft, but from a scamming “boiler room” in a distant land. I played along for a few minutes, pretending to be verklempt and worried that my files had been hacked, my disk drive would spin out of control, and my printer could jettison its cyan ink cartridge at any moment.

I knew this was a fake call. But if I hadn’t, then here’s what would have probably happened: 1. First, he would have me log into their website and download a program that would allow him to gain control of my computer. 2. The scammer would then open several arcane Windows log files, pointing out the many warnings and errors in the list. (These are perfectly normal. For example, if you ask Windows to get a file from the DVD drive and there’s no disk, you’ll find that logged as an error.) 3. The scammer would then confirm that, yes indeed, my computer is infected with an insidious program.

But, to my relief, he could remove the malware right away, and offer me a maintenance plan that would ensure I’d never fall victim to such treachery. 4. The price would be $99.95 for a one-time fix, or $199.95 for three years’ service, or $299.95 for life. (I wasn’t sure if it was his lifetime or mine—or the computer’s.) I told him I knew his “offer” was a scam, and he hung up.

The bottom line: Microsoft does not monitor your computer, and does not make unsolicited phone calls telling you your computer has become infected. If someone calls you, unsolicited, claiming to be from Microsoft, hang up.

While we’re at it, here’s a list of other phone scams you need to know about (these are actual scams): 1. The IRS calls you claiming you owe back taxes of $5,623.43, that the police are on their way to arrest you, and that you’ll spend the next 47 years in prison unless you go to the nearest Walmart and send the IRS a MoneyGram right now. 2. The electric company calls you threatening to cut off your electricity unless you pay $823.12 in the form of iTunes gift cards, which you can easily purchase at the nearest Walmart. 3. Your grandson Timmy calls from the jailhouse in Bayonne asking for $5000 to bail him out of jail. If that happens, tell Timmy to call his mom because you’re at the Walmart buying iTunes cards so your lights don’t get turned off.

If you have questions about your computer, cell phone, tablet, digital camera, or other digital gadgets, stop by the PSRC computer lab on Tuesdays from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. or Friday from 10 a.m. until 12 noon.

WELCOME TO NEW PSRC STAFF

BETH WEISKOPF - OFFICE ASSISTANT
I have only worked at PSRC for a short time, but I love its warm and friendly atmosphere. Prior to working here, I taught computer classes to preschoolers and raised my 3 children.

CATHY GARA - BOOKKEEPER
Before joining PSRC I did the bookkeeping for a non profit mental health/addiction counseling agency for 17 years. I resigned from my position so that my son and I could move with my husband to the Dallas, Texas area for a job opportunity for him. We spent a few years out there then returned to our home in Hunterdon County. My daughter got married last October so I was busy for about a year and a half planning that with her. As things settled down, I started looking for a part time position doing bookkeeping and found PSRC.

DONNA COSGROVE - DIRECTOR OF PROGRAMS
Before I came here, I came from here. I started at PSRC a couple of years ago as a Development Assistant for Barbara Prince. Before that, I was a non-stop parent volunteer for my daughter’s school, from 300-person dinner auctions to President of parent associations to book fairs. Going way back, I worked in the Design-Build world of public bidding. Lots of architectural drawings, contracts, and number crunching. Today, I’m thrilled to be PSRC’s Director of Programs. We’re so pleased to welcome Beth, Cathy and Donna to our team!
