EVEN THE SMALLEST ACT OF KINDNESS CAN BRING ABOUT GREAT CHANGE!

At PSRC, volunteers are essential to everything we do every day. National Volunteer Week, April 15–21, 2018, is a time to celebrate the impact of volunteer service on our communities.

PSRC volunteers are:
Front Desk Associates • Book Discussion Facilitators • Technology Lab Assistants
Evergreen Forum Instructors • GrandPals
Event Production Assistants • HomeFriends
KnitWits • Retirement Group Leaders
Social & Support Group Facilitators
Board and Advisory Volunteers
Wreath Makers • and so much more!

PSRC has over 375 volunteers helping us do what we do best — serve aging adults! Whether working at our front desk assisting with phone calls and answering questions, or serving to support and advise on our board of trustees, you make a difference in our lives.

We honor you and thank you for all that you do!

MIGRATIONS IN ART — EXHIBITION & RECEPTION
PSRC Art Students
Wednesday, April 4, 2018
4:00–5:30 p.m.
Art exhibition runs through the month of April
This month I have been living alone as my husband is doing relief work in Puerto Rico. One thing that I have enjoyed is getting a rescue kitty. It has been great to see her silhouette in the window when I get home at night, and to be greeted at the door, as well as to have company through meals, the evening and nights. But the responsibility also means I need to get home as quickly as I can and that everything else must be put on hold until I tend to her needs. It’s made me think about the pros and cons of pet care.

Research shows that caring for an animal can provide tremendous benefits for aging adults, improving not only quality of life, but health and well-being. “Just 15 minutes bonding with an animal sets off a chemical chain reaction in the brain, lowering levels of the fight-or-flight hormone, cortisol, and increasing the feel-good hormone, serotonin. The result: heart rate, blood pressure and stress levels immediately drop. Over the long term, pet and human interactions can lower cholesterol levels, fight depression and may even help protect against heart disease and stroke (Byrne 2015, aplaceformom.com).”

- Pets can encourage physical fitness, such as walking a dog or playing with a cat. This is great for weight-control.
- Pets are good for the heart. Studies show that pet interaction reduces the risk of a heart attack and hastens recovery.
- Pets stimulate social interaction, they get you out with other people. Few people can walk past a dog in the park without stopping to talk or make a doggie play date. Plus, there are all the people who help you provide care to your pet.
- Pets are great companions. They reduce loneliness, isolation and depression. Pets can also calm emotions like anxiety. Pets create a presence in your home and are very interactive. They give love unconditionally and don’t fret when a person isn’t verbally interactive. Pets can fill some of the emptiness left by loss and the need for touch with love and affection.
- Pets help create structure—there need to be regular exercise and meal times during the day.
• Caring for a pet gives a sense of purpose—a reason for being. Some memory-care and other senior care communities have pets for comfort and purpose. Older adults also make great pet foster parents.

• Having a pet can also help a person feel safer in their home.

Other experts question these results, noting increased fall risk, increase of stress caring for a pet and the impact of loss.

It is important to consider the decision to get a pet carefully. Pets live for 10–18 years. Where will you be in a decade? Two? Will you still be able to provide good care for your pet? Do you have a back-up plan of who would take the pet if you couldn’t care for it—either short or long-term? Will you need help taking the pet to the groomer or vet? Can you afford the care? Will you be home or travelling often?

Be realistic about your abilities and get the right pet for you (not the bouncy strong puppy if you are unstable on your feet). Make sure you also train your pet not to be a hazard, weaving around your ankles or sleeping in the dark beside your bed, or out of your control (there goes a squirrel!).

Having a pet is not the right decision for everyone. If you are a pet person, considering these questions can make the experience more successful for all involved.

More Better Passwords

Passwords continue to vex us. Forgetting your password locks you out of your email, Facebook page, or online bank account, and recovering your password can be a daunting task if you haven't set up a recovery option. (Read on). On the other hand, you should never write down your passwords in a notebook.

Unfortunately, most online accounts require passwords with upper- and lower-case letters, numbers, and symbols, and folks have trouble coming up with memorable combinations that fit these requirements. I used to suggest passwords that use these combinations to create memorable words or phrases. For example, “Eye8aG00se!” (“I ate a goose”) is 11 characters and (maybe) easy to remember, unless you don’t recall whether the animal is a G00se or a M00se. A sophisticated computer program could figure this one out in a couple of days, which is pretty secure.

But how many of these clever combinations can we invent? It’s not easy. There’s a better way.

I recently subscribed to a password manager1, which suggests passwords comprising strings of real, but normally unrelated, words separated by hyphens. Example: monkey-hotdog-vine.

The point is that this is a long password and not hard to remember if you can picture a monkey with a hotdog swinging from a vine.

You can add an upper-case letter and number if needed: Monkey-hotdog-vine8 Now you have an 19-character password of real words that should fit most website requirements. And it’s secure because there are a bazillion ways to assemble combinations of real words. Other possibilities: “ball-tango-relish” or “mailpost-doctor-teal.” You can use words that relate only to you: “husband-don-incompetent” is one my wife uses, though some would argue this is a common phrase. You don’t want to use “dogs-shed-profusely” because it’s a sensible word combination that could be guessed. The article “How to Create a Strong Password (And Remember It)”2 provides more information.

Password Recovery

Many websites (and most email sites) allow you to reset your password IF you’ve provided secondary contact information ahead of time. For example, if you add your smart phone number or another email address3 to your Gmail account, resetting your password initiates a text or email message from Gmail with a code that you enter on line to prove you’re you. But you have to set up these options now. Then you can provide a new password, such as Pickle-bosco-charm9.

If you need help with your passwords, or anything related to “tech,” simply stop by PSRC’s Technology Lab on Tuesdays from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m., Wednesdays from 1:30 to 4, or Friday from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon.

1 I use 1Password, but there are several other good services. Some are free.
3 A good reason to set up a second email account, even if you seldom use it.

NEW MEDICARE CARDS

New Medicare cards will be mailed out starting in April. The new card replaces your social security number with a new random number. You do not need to do anything to get a new card, and do not need to pay for it.

There are already scams circulating asking for personal information such as social security or credit card information to help you get the card. No legitimate company will call you about your Medicare card. If you are uncertain, call Medicare customer service (1-800-633-4227).

When you get the new card, dispose of your old one carefully — shred or burn it.

TRAVEL SAFETY

Do you use the hotel wifi when you travel? If you do, make sure you are accessing the true wifi and not a parallel one set up by a hacker. For example, “Hyatt 2” or “Hyatt Pool” may not be legitimate even when you are at the Hyatt. When you log on, the hacker can track your key strokes and discover your passwords and account numbers. Safe practices include using your mobile carrier wifi when going to personal sites, turning off auto-login functions, and logging out when you are done.

ART FOR LIFE! ART FOR HEALTH!

Have you been looking for an activity that will engage your senses, inspire your creative nature, and help to maintain a healthy body, mind, and soul? The science is in and it’s been determined that art is an important part of healthy living. So, may we suggest one of our three fascinating classes? From novice to expert, you’ll find classes in drawing, painting, and multimedia with accomplished teachers who love art, love their students, and love to teach. And with our new monthly classes, you can get a taste of your artistic side without a serious time commitment. Sounds like a win-win.

Take the plunge! You won’t regret it.
Register at princetonsenior.org.

Don’t forget to visit our art students’ retrospective, “Migrations in Art”. See page 1 for more details.
