“Hey!” he shouted across the parking lot, “Do you want to get a cup of coffee and chat sometime?”

I met Will when I was an intern with a community organization during my master’s program and he was an active participant in that organization. I was in my mid-twenties and Will was in his early-seventies. I was just launching into my career in a helping profession and Will had recently retired as a banking executive. My first child had just been born and Will was celebrating the college graduation of his fourth grandchild. Our friendship began with an invitation for my wife, Diane, and I to join Will and his wife for a lovely dinner at their home. Soon after, we began playing golf together on a monthly basis. We went on occasional outings to see a minor league baseball game or to grab breakfast at his favorite spot in town. He became a dear friend to me — and I’d like to think I was one of his dear friends as well.

The power of inter-generational friendship is remarkable. Will became a mentor who taught me more than I would’ve imagined about work and life — and living a healthy balance between those oft-competing spheres. Shirley, Will’s life partner, once told me that I became Will’s entre into an entirely new field. Our families shared life celebrations together and we formed a bond of friendship that changed both of us.

In a recent article entitled “Escaping ‘the old fogey’: Doing old age through intergenerational friendship,” sociologist Catherine Elliott O’Dare and her colleagues contend that intergenerational friendship is an integral part of ageing in a meaningful, everyday way. The qualitative research study pointed to three specific benefits of intergenerational friendships identified by the senior participants in the study. First, the intergenerational friendship helped the older partner fight off their perceived fears of “getting older,” in particular those socio-cultural stereotypes of ageing that participants are “afraid of becoming.” One of the study’s participants, Brendan, spoke about how his intergenerational friendships helped him “stave off the typical effects of retirement/ageing.”

The second benefit of intergenerational friendships highlighted in the research study was the “continuing expansion” rather than “contraction” of knowledge, interests, and goals. Hugo, who has been retired for nearly ten years, continues to participate in a group comprised of folks over fifty who are at various stages of the journey towards or through retirement. The group meets bi-weekly to discuss current affairs, financial markets, and other related subjects with the benefit of providing inter-generational friendships. “This group helps me continue to broaden my scope in life and creates tremendous friendships that have sustained me throughout my late professional life and my retirement.”

Finally, intergenerational friendships foster a sense of belonging and connectedness — with other individuals and with society as a whole. The study contends that “intergenerational friendship is a conduit to continued societal connectedness and belonging for aging adults.” Being an older intergenerational friend, the study discovered, “was imbued with seeking joy, belonging, and connectedness in everyday life.”

While this study helpfully articulates the benefits of intergenerational friendship for older adults, it stops short of addressing the benefits from the perspective of the younger relational partners. My friendship with Will truly changed my life in powerful ways. Not only was Will a mentor for me during the early stages of adulthood, he became a trusted confidant and encouraging guide. Even though Will has been gone for quite some time, I still remember fondly our conversations and the laughter shared on the golf course. I am truly thankful that he took a risk and invited me for a cup of coffee. It’s a cup of coffee that I will never forget. I wonder who you might invite to join you for coffee? It just may change your life!

RETIREMENT PROGRAMS

MEN IN RETIREMENT — “A BRIEF HISTORY OF TELEVISION”
Friday, June 7 at 2:00 p.m.
The demonstration of television at the 1939 World’s Fair is commonly associated with the start of TV’s history. In actuality, television was being researched in 1877, with a number of different systems demonstrated (and sold) prior to 1939. This presentation will trace the history of television from its early beginnings to the current introduction of a new generation of capabilities. Speaker Rich Chernock is a MIR member recently retired from Triveni Digital in Princeton. All are welcome.

Register now online at princetonsenior.org. Financial assistance is available if needed.
WOMEN IN RETIREMENT — “SHOW AND TELL”
Friday, June 21 at 10:30 a.m.
Women in Retirement members have a variety of creative talents, encompassing painting, photography, quilting, jewelry-making, poetry writing, and more. Join us as they show samples of their work and share their enjoyment of arts and crafts pastimes. All are welcome.

TRANSITION TO RETIREMENT
Friday, June 21 at 3:00 p.m.
This group addresses the many kinds of issues that can arise during the transition to retirement. The group is facilitated by John George, PhD, licensed psychologist, and Dave Roussell, MSEd, MSW, LSW, PSRC care coordinator and HomeFriends coordinator.

LIMITED SERIES PROGRAMS

“AN AFTERNOON CONCERT WITH THE NEW JERSEY SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA”
Thursday, June 13, 1:30–2:30 p.m.
Experience the joy of live music right here at PSRC. NJSO will be bringing a string quartet to play their repertoire of classical music from composers such as Mozart, Beethoven, Dvořák, and Ravel. This performance will highlight the evolution of music through the prism of the small ensemble which many composers turned to for their most personal and profound works.
Light refreshments
Registration required, no fee.

ACOUSTIC CAFÉ
Friday, June 21 at 1:30 p.m.
Join us for an afternoon of original music by Sheli Monacchio from Van Dyck Law. Sheli will share her songs and some life stories on her acoustic guitar. Coffeehouse style treats will be provided by The Gardens at Monroe.
Registration required, no fee.

TECHNOLOGY WORKSHOP—“SECURITY FOR YOUR DEVICES”
Wednesday, June 26 at 10:00 a.m.
Learn the essentials of keeping your devices secure and the data on your devices private. We'll cover basic definitions, the settings and applications you can use, how to remember your passwords, and some of the ways that you can protect yourself against email scams. This workshop provides information that is applicable across all brands of devices and is not a “hands-on” course, no need to bring your device with you.
Instructors: Don Benjamin & Evelyn Sasmor
Registration required, no fee.

FREE COMMUNITY PICNIC
Tuesday, June 25, Rain date is Thursday, June 27 6:00–8:00 p.m.
Redding Circle in Princeton
Join your neighbors for a picnic with grilled hot dogs, hamburgers, and more. We bring the BBQ, you bring the fun! Open to the public. Redding Circle is located off Mt. Lucas Road in Princeton.
Co-sponsored by the Princeton Public Library, Princeton Housing Authority, Princeton Human Services, Princeton Police Department, PSRC, and Committed and Faithful Princetonians.

Technology Lab Update

We are pleased to announce that we have given the PSRC Technology Lab a makeover. We have updated and upgraded the Lab computers that are available for your use, and we even have new comfortable chairs. We’ve also rearranged the work areas to ensure that there is ample space for us to work side by side with you.

This makeover was made possible by the Lundy Fund, which was established in 2016, in honor of the long-time coordinator of the Lab, Barbara Lundy. We thank the Lundy family and all of you who have donated over the years.

Please come and visit us to enjoy our new surroundings. Our knowledgeable and patient volunteers will be happy to help you with all your devices and questions.

ALL CLASSES ARE HELD AT THE SUZANNE PATTERSON BUILDING UNLESS NOTED
Univac

The progress in digital computing technology has been nothing short of miraculous. When I was a computer science student¹ at the University of Florida in the late 1960’s, most of my programs ran on the school’s IBM 370, a behemoth “mainframe” computer that was, at the time, the bees’ knees.

The first commercial computer was the UNIVersal Automatic Computer, or UNIVAC. Invented by J. Prespert Eckert and John Mauchly from the University of Pennsylvania, the first UNIVAC was used by the U.S. Census Bureau in 1951. CBS employed the fifth UNIVAC to predict the results of the 1952 presidential election. (Spoiler alert: Eisenhower beat Stevenson).

UNIVAC used 5,000 vacuum tubes, weighed 8 tons, occupied 380 square feet, used 125kW of electricity (your home uses, on average, 1.2kW), and could perform 2000 operations per second. (Such as adding 1 + 1 = 2).

Its random-access memory that held the program being executed totaled 1,000 characters, and its mass storage comprised 10 magnetic tape drives that held 1 million characters each.

UNIVAC didn’t have an operating system (such as Windows or MacOS); rather, the computer operators performed the functions manually by loading magnetic tapes, starting programs, and feeding punch-cards into the typewriter to print the results.

To explain how far we’ve come in computing technology, the table below compares the UNIVAC to the iPhone X:

Nanotechnology (really tiny stuff) shrunk the Univac into the iPhone: A computer you can hold in your hand that has almost infinitely more calculating power, plus a cell phone and a camera. And a GPS receiver. And your music and photos. And apps you can buy for a buck.

We can’t fix a Univac, but we can help you use your smart phone, laptop, or other digital device. Just drop by the Technology Lab on Tuesdays or Wednesdays from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. or Fridays from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

¹ Not my career field, which was electric power.
² Assumes each Univac’s “character” = 1 ”byte” or 8 binary bits (one's and zero's).
World Elder Abuse Awareness Day
Saturday, June 15

World Elder Abuse Awareness Day (WEAAD) was launched by the International Network for the Prevention of Elder Abuse and the World Health Organization at the United Nations. The purpose of WEAAD is to provide an opportunity for communities around the world to promote a better understanding of abuse and neglect of older persons by raising awareness of the cultural, social, economic, and demographic processes affecting elder abuse and neglect.

The National Center on Elder Abuse (NCEA) and the National Clearinghouse on Abuse in Later Life (NCALL) invite you to join them in Lifting Up Voices for World Elder Abuse Awareness Day (WEAAD) 2019. This theme serves as a platform for unifying Elder Justice and Violence Against Women by sharing the lived experiences of older people.

Visit: https://eldermistreatment.usc.edu/weaad-home/

Older people throughout the United States lose an estimated $2.6 billion or more annually due to elder financial abuse and exploitation. Elder abuse also creates health care and legal costs for our society.

What Is Elder Abuse?

Elder abuse refers to intentional or negligent acts by a caregiver or trusted individual that causes harm to an older person. Elder abuse takes many forms, including:

• Neglect or Isolation
• Physical abuse
• Sexual abuse
• Financial abuse and exploitation
• Emotional or psychological abuse (including verbal abuse and threats)

Each state defines elder abuse differently. Information for New Jersey can be found at https://www.state.nj.us/humanservices/doas/services/aps/. There is some debate over whether mistreatment by strangers, rather than by a person in a trust relationship to the older person such as spouse, child, or friend, also constitutes elder abuse, neglect, or exploitation.
PLAN!
Talk with family members, friends, and professionals that you trust and plan for your future.

BE CAUTIOUS!
Unscrupulous people target seniors and will abuse or take advantage of them.

STAY CONNECTED!
Keep in touch regularly with others, isolation can make you vulnerable to abuse.

REPORT!
Making a report in instances of abuse or neglect is the right thing to do, and it’s easy. Don’t be afraid! Elders have a right to be safe!

Please visit www.napsa-now.org/report for more information on how to make a report in your area.
