Welcome Our Three New Staff
Lisa Adler, Jamal Jarrett, and Shifra Vega

LISA ADLER, MA, MSW
Associate Executive Director for Fundraising & Development

Working in the nonprofit sector for more than twenty years, Lisa has held positions with two local Jewish Federations, the Jewish community’s umbrella funding network with affiliates across North America. Most recently, serving as part of the senior staff, Lisa managed the annual campaign, including major donors and women’s philanthropy.

Lisa also worked for national organizations such as HIAS, an international refugee resettlement organization, as part of the executive team, overseeing the national board, a major donor portfolio, and community engagement activities. As a board governance and leadership development specialist for the Union for Reform Judaism, she specialized in board trainings, as well as synagogue and rabbinic transition management consulting for over 900 synagogues throughout North America.

Closer to home, Lisa worked at the Jewish Family & Children’s Service of Greater Mercer County, in Princeton, a community service agency providing counseling and social services.

Lisa received her BA from New York University as well as an MSW in social work administration from Columbia University and a masters in Judaic studies from the Jewish Theological Seminary of America with a minor in Jewish education.

SHIFRA VEGA, PhD
Lifelong Learning Coordinator

Shifra has worked for many years in higher education and research administration, most recently at Philadelphia’s Gratz College as coordinator for accreditation and assessment for Middle States. She received her PhD in plant science from the University of Pennsylvania. She looks forward to bringing her academic experience and administrative skills to the Evergreen Forum.
“If you aren’t making a difference in someone else’s life,” Ella said, “then you aren’t really living life to the fullest.”

I first met Ella when she was a ninety-one-year-old volunteer in the community I served for many years. A career educator, “Miss Ella” began volunteering upon her retirement at the age of sixty-six. She was well known across the county for her commitment to education, providing grants and scholarships to local college students through her foundation. In addition, she was an active Sunday school teacher, a frequent reader in the local schools, a volunteer at the community food bank, and much more.

At her 100th birthday celebration hosted by our church, she was joined by family, friends, and over 200 people from the community including school personnel, local, county, and state politicians, and many others. Seated in front of the gathered crowd, Miss Ella challenged everyone to give back to the community. “The best gift you can give me, besides chocolate,” she said smiling, “is to start volunteering and making a difference.” She had arranged for over fifteen community organizations to be present that day and, in honor of Miss Ella, over 125 people signed up to volunteer for a minimum of ten hours!

A few years ago, Senior Corps (a national service program for active adults over sixty-years-old) conducted research on the health benefits for older adults who volunteered in their program for one year. In their study, they found:

• 46% of participants reported significant health improvement throughout the year
• 67% of participants reported decreased social isolation and improved social connections
• Among volunteers who started their service reporting multiple symptoms of depression, over 70% reported significant improvement.

Similarly, Nicole Anderson, a senior scientist with the Rotman Research Institute and Associate Professor at the University of Toronto, concluded years of study indicating “volunteering boosts mental and physical health for older adults. Seniors who volunteer feel happier and less depressed, function better mentally, and experience more social support and satisfaction with their lives.”

PSRC has an incredible group of volunteers who give generously of their time to support others. I think of all of the volunteers that make our center run when we are offering in person programming – from the front desk to the Tech Lab to special events to our board, advisory council, and Evergreen Forum steering committee members. We also have volunteers who serve in programs like GrandPals and HomeFriends.

In the midst of the current pandemic, volunteers make phone calls to our constituents, serve as teaching assistants for our virtual classes, and support community members by shopping and running errands. I am truly grateful for all who give so freely of their time to help us carry out our mission to help older adults thrive!

If you are interested in volunteering, contact Sharon Hurley, Director of Social Services and Volunteer Coordinator. We rely greatly on our volunteers and are truly grateful for all that they do to help us carry out our mission to help older adults thrive!

My vision for the future of our work is to expand our reach by mobilizing a senior corps of volunteers who are ready and willing to serve throughout the community. I want to challenge you to find a way to give back. In the words of Miss Ella, if you want to truly live life to the fullest, it’s time to start investing your time in the lives of others. Thank you for making a difference!

All the Best,
Drew A. Dyson, PhD

A Call to ACTION for Elder Justice

No one wants to think that elder abuse happens in America, but it does. Working in the social services arena can sometimes be heartbreaking. We unfortunately see many incidents of abuse and neglect. In June, PSRC held several virtual events around the topic of elder justice. These events gave us moments to reflect on how we are protecting the oldest amongst us. The events informed, educated, and gave us action steps for change.

Robert J Shanahan Jr. Esq. of Shanahan and Voigt, LLC spoke passionately about his experience as both an elder law attorney and pro bono counsel for the Volunteer Guardianship One on One program in Hunterdon county. His advocacy work around elder justice helped to create a group of volunteers passionate about making changes locally in his county.

There was an important discussion led by Helen Burton in TED Talks that brought up questions about protecting ourselves and our own family members from the possibility of abuse as we age. Later in the month a virtual forum included Heidi Mueller from WomanSpace about domestic violence, Carol Watchler from Bayard Rustin Center for Social Justice addressed the many issues facing LGBTQIA individuals, and Kurt Baker from Certified Wealth Management and Investment, LLC about financial abuse.

The events and additional discussions brought to light that there is much more work that we could be doing from both a prevention and advocacy standpoint. I would like to propose a next step. Let's start having regular discussions about this topic. Let’s not let the fact that June 15 as WEAAD, World Elder Abuse Awareness Day, be the only time we focus on elder justice. Would you join me virtually on Tuesday, July 21 at 3:00 p.m. to begin these important discussions? Send me an email about your thoughts and watch for an online registration to participate in our first Zoom discussion about elder justice in Mercer County. shurley@princetonsenior.org.

Let’s Talk About 5G

Perhaps you’ve heard about the new 5G cellphone network and thought, “Golly! What’s that?” (I usually start my thoughts with “Golly!” Some folks start their thoughts with “Oh no!” but I’m an optimist.)

The answer is simple: It’s the newest generation of global standards for mobile networks. (The “G” means “generation.”) It’s called 5G because we’re now using 4G. Before that, we were using 3G. (Do you see a pattern here? I hope so.) I prepared this table for you to summarize the features each cellphone standard provided as technology progressed from mobile phones the size of large bricks to smartphones the size of much smaller bricks.

The 5G network will improve the reliability of the cellphone network, provide much (MUCH) faster data streaming speeds, and reduce the network’s “latency,” which is its response time to your requests for data.

Cellphone providers are installing equipment now to support the new 5G standard, but it will be a few years before we’ll see complete nationwide coverage. Not to worry—the assortment of 5G smartphones is limited. We expect Apple to release its first 5G iPhone later this year. In two years, they’ll be everywhere.

You may have read that some folks are worried that the 5G signals caused the Coronavirus, or autism in cats (“Golly! How would you know?”), or uncontrolled flatulence. This is ridiculous. Uncontrolled flatulence can result from too much bran in your diet, not cellphone signals. Our bodies don’t respond to cellular radio frequencies because they’re too low—way below the frequency of light, which is way below the damaging frequency of x-rays and gamma rays.

So if you have gas, blame the dog. And now you know about 5G. Golly!

Donors Like You — Thank you!
As I recently joined PSRC as the new Associate Director, Fundraising and Development, I am already in awe of the breadth and depth of programs and services provided by PSRC. In reaching out to donors and stakeholders to introduce myself, I have heard time and again, how PSRC has been a lifeline socially, educationally, and emotionally during this time. We appreciate you and thank all those who made a gift to the 2019–2020 Annual Giving Appeal. Your generosity is the fuel that empowers PSRC to change lives.

The Princeton Senior Resource Center grieves alongside the Floyd, Taylor, Arbery, and McDade families along with countless others whose loved ones have fallen victim to the pandemic of racism plaguing our country. We stand in solidarity and support alongside of our black and brown neighbors in their sadness and rage who are demanding justice and systemic change. We stand collectively against the institutional racism and white supremacy that has become a public health crisis in this country. With other community partners, we will continue to work for a just and equitable society that ensures that all black lives matter. Further, we commit ourselves as an organization to deep introspection and assessment, epistemic humility and learning, and standards of care for all people as we strive towards a better society.
