Dear Friends,

Prince Taylor was an extraordinary human being. The former Princeton resident (Laurel Circle) and bishop in the United Methodist Church was ninety-four years old when he passed in 2001. In our last conversation, a year before his death, Bishop Taylor challenged me to maintain a positive outlook on life, even when it becomes most difficult. “Each day,” he shared, “I wake up happy to have another day to learn and grow and to make a difference in someone’s life.” He went on to share that his retired years had been among his best, stating that he approached aging “with excitement for what’s next!”

Turns out, his positive outlook on aging was likely a contributing factor to his long, active life.

Yale psychologist and epidemiologist Dr. Becca Levy, professor in the Yale School of Public Health, has spent her career to this point studying ageism and its effects on the health and well-being of older adults. In her new book, Breaking the Age Code, Dr. Levy demonstrates that ageism is about more than “hurt feelings or discriminatory behavior,” but also deleteriously affects physical and cognitive health in dramatic ways, including a dramatic shortening of one’s life expectancy. This book follows on her 2002 longitudinal study of older adults over a twenty year span in rural Ohio showing that one’s own positive views of aging early in retirement extended life by a median of seven and a half years.

Dr. Levy and her colleagues measure ageism by testing subliminal biases evidenced in word association with images to test for negative or positive associations. Through her work over more than thirty years, we know that ageism not only impacts longevity, but ageist attitudes can also lead to significant cardiovascular events, physical functioning, and even Alzheimer’s disease, with significant decreases in the size of the hippocampus, the region of the brain connected with memory. Significantly, her research on the APOE4 gene, connected with increased risk for Alzheimer’s, shows that “those without the gene who had positive age beliefs had as low a risk as people without the gene.”

Ageism also has a dramatic impact on public policy and medical spending. Three significant factors of ageism, specifically age discrimination, negative age stereotypes, and negative self-perceptions of aging “lead to $63 billion in excess annual spending on common health conditions like cardiovascular and respiratory disease, diabetes, and injuries.” These national findings are supported by the World Health Organizations 2021 Global Report on Ageism, which also found that one in every two people globally held ageist attitudes toward older adults. That report finds that “ageism arises when age is used to categorize and divide people in ways that lead to harm, disadvantage, and injustice” and shows up in prejudicial attitudes, discriminatory acts, and institutional policies and practices that perpetuate stereotypical beliefs.

Dr. Levy finds hope, however, in her belief that “damaging ideas about age can change.” She argues that while it is extremely difficult to create beliefs, you can activate them by reinforcing positive associations with aging like “active,” “full of life,” instead of “grumpy” or “helpless.” She also encourages intergenerational activities in common life (such as our GrandPals PenPals or Seniors-for-Seniors programs) as well as learning about ageism and discovering simple, yet powerful tools to combat ageism.

The Silver Century Foundation is a local organization committed to “promoting a positive view of aging...and shining a light on entrenched societal ageism.” The Silver Century Foundation is the powerful work of local resident Katherine Klotzburger and has been working on this mission since its founding in 2002. Their website, www.silvercentury.org, offers a clearinghouse for resources focused on combatting ageism and challenging stereotypes. It is a go-to resource and one I encourage you to discover.

Dr. Levy believes in an “age liberation movement,” that sweeps the country and counters the disturbing narrative that aging is something to be feared rather than something to embrace with hope and possibility. Bishop Taylor encouraged aging adults to have an optimistic outlook as they write the next, and perhaps greatest, chapter of their lives. What about you?

All the Best,

FIRST FRIDAY FILM — DISCLOSURE (HYBRID – IN-PERSON AT PFR LOCATION AND ON ZOOM)

Friday, June 3 at 1:00 p.m.
DISCLOSURE is an unprecedented, eye-opening look at transgender depictions in film and television, revealing how Hollywood simultaneously reflects and manufactures our deepest anxieties about gender. Leading trans thinkers and creatives share their reactions and resistance to some of Hollywood’s most beloved moments. Films and television trace a history that is at once dehumanizing, yet also evolving, complex, and sometimes humorous. What emerges is a fascinating story of dynamic interplay between trans representation on screen, society’s beliefs, and the reality of trans lives. Reframing familiar scenes and iconic characters in a new light, director Sam Feder invites viewers to confront unexamined assumptions, and shows how what once captured the American imagination now elicits new feelings. DISCLOSURE provokes a startling revolution in how we see and understand trans people. Starring: Laverne Cox, Bianca Leigh, Susan Stryker, Yance Ford. Running time: 1 hour, 48 minutes; Genre: Documentary; Rated: Mature Registration required, no fee.

GRANDPALS UPDATE

When the pandemic hit in 2020, we had to stop meeting in person and those restrictions are still in place two years later. Now that children are back in school, we wanted to find a new way to encourage intergenerational sharing.

We have started a letter writing program with the fourth graders at Littlebrook and the GrandPals volunteers who are still at home. To date, approximately 100 letters have been exchanged. We hope to continue this even after we are able to have our kindergartner/senior partnerships in person safely once again. For now these GrandPal PenPals are on their way to forging lifelong relationships!

Windows 11 and Mac OS Monterey – Six-month Review

Here are my thoughts about Windows 11 and MacOS Monterey after using both for the last six months. Neither are revolutionary; both bring nice features. And both are more secure.

Windows 11

I really like Windows 11’s beautiful desktop, with its rounded window corners and beautiful colors. The enhanced desktop widgets feature displays weather, stocks, and calendar, but doesn't offer enough options. The new Snap Groups and Snap Layout make positioning windows on the screen easier. When you click the maximize icon, you’ll see a choice of layouts for the windows on your desktop. Really nice for those of us who run more than one application at a time.

The most un-noticeable change is increased security. Windows 11 requires the computer to have a Trusted Platform Module (TPM) chip that protects the operating system and the “firmware” (that's the built-in software that starts Windows when you start your computer.) In other words, Windows 11 makes it harder for malware to mess up your computer.

Should you Upgrade?

Sure—mostly for the better security features. But that said, Windows 10 is quite secure, and Microsoft will continue to support Windows 10 through October 2025. And some older computers that don’t have the TPM chip may not be able to run Windows 11. Bottom line: upgrade if you can, but don’t lose sleep if you can’t or don’t want to.

Mac OS 12, “Monterey”

Apple’s Monterey is the doppelgänger of its former versions (Big Sur, Catalina, Mojave, et al), but adds several features, such as

1. Universal Control that lets you use your keyboard, trackpad, and mouse with a nearby iPad or second Mac,
2. The “quick note” feature for quickly adding a note to your Notebook.
3. A “focus” mode for managing notifications during the day.

Monterey continues Apple’s emphasis on security. For example, adding software like Zoom or TeamViewer will ask you for permission to use your camera, microphone, or file system.

Monterey already offers lots of desktop widgets if you’re so inclined, and there are several third-party apps that let you arrange your windows like the new Snap Groups and Snap Layout feature in Windows 11.

Should You Upgrade?

Yes, if for no other reason that MacOS updates always include security enhancements. If you have questions about Windows or Mac OS, just mosey on over to the PSRC website at https://www.princetonsenior.org/technology-lab/, fill out a request form, and we’ll be in touch.

JUSTICE FOR ALL
WEAAD — June 15

As Americans, we believe in justice for all. Yet, every year an estimated five million, or one in ten older Americans experience elder abuse, neglect, or exploitation. Working together, we can build the social supports that can prevent this abuse and keep everyone safe as we age. World Elder Abuse Awareness Day (WEAAD) — commemorated on June 15 every year — is an opportunity for people or organizations to take action to protect older people by raising awareness about elder abuse, why it occurs, and what we can do to stop it. We can act collectively to support justice for all.

Watch for messages, research data and opportunities for discussion throughout the month of June. PSRC is here for you. If you or anyone you know has experienced elder abuse, please reach out to have a confidential conversation with someone on our social services team. Send an email to socialservices@princetonsenior.org or call us at 609.751.9699.

Sharon Hurley, director of social services, ext. 104, and Billi Charron, MSW, ext. 115.

What Is Elder Abuse?
Elder abuse refers to intentional or negligent acts by a caregiver or trusted individual that causes harm to an older person. Elder abuse takes many forms, including:
• Neglect or Isolation • Physical abuse • Sexual abuse • Financial abuse and exploitation • Emotional or psychological abuse (including verbal abuse and threats)

How Can We Report Elder Abuse?
It is up to everyone to prevent and address elder abuse. Report suspected mistreatment to your local adult protective services, long-term care ombudsman or law enforcement agency who can investigate the situation. Programs such as Adult Protective Services (APS) and the Long-Term Care Ombudsmen are here to help. For reporting numbers, contact Eldercare Locator at 1.800.677.1116 (eldercare.gov). If you believe that an older person is in a life-threatening situation, contact 911 or the local police or sheriff’s department.

Spotlight on Walsh Senior Solutions

Walsh Senior Solutions helps families of all ages to declutter, downsize, and move. As an insured moving company, they provide a comprehensive solution to families who are moving, as well as families who want to declutter and remain in their home. They have helped more than 800 families in the past four years.

Walsh helps families to sort, keep, sell, donate, discard, or move their possessions. In addition to services to get the home ready for real estate photography, they also help with floor planning to decide what of their current furniture and items can fit into their next home, as well as coordinating the selling of excess possessions through various sources, such as an estate sale, consignment, online auction, or online selling. For items unsold, they can help with the donation of furniture and other items, and provide a donation receipt. Additionally, they provide junk removal services, estate cleanout, house cleaning before the real estate photos and closing date, the packing and moving of a traditional moving company, unpacking services to have the new home setup and live-in ready, as well as helping to pack and bring items to storage, or pack and load a pod-like moving container that is often seen in driveways.

Walsh Senior Solutions is trained, insured, and bonded by the National Association of Senior Move Managers and an active member of Caring Connections of NJ/PA, the Association of Elder Care Professionals, and Senior Care Services. Walsh Senior Solutions is pleased to be a supporting sponsor of the Princeton Senior Resource Center and look forward to assisting you or your loved one.

As we approach the last month of the 2021–2022 annual giving campaign, we invite you to make a DONATION that will further our work with the older adults in our community. By participating in our annual fund with your donation, PSRC will be able to continue bringing purpose, hope, and light to the seniors we serve.

“The best way to lengthen out our days is to walk steadily and with a purpose.” —Charles Dickens

For forty-eight years, PSRC has been a beacon of hope for older adults in our community by providing dynamic enrichment programs, engaging lifelong learning opportunities, compassionate social services, and knowledgeable resource referrals. PSRC exists to help older adults thrive and experience the joy and hope of aging well.

For Lynn, who discovered a new sense of purpose and belonging in the Elements of Painting class at PSRC, identifying it as “life altering.” She found this virtual class, in the midst of the pandemic, and decided to give it a try.

For Geri, purpose was discovered through volunteerism, connecting with our social service team to create the new and very popular Early-Stage Memory Loss Support group. A retired clinical social worker, Geri was teamed with fellow social worker Eileen to launch this critical group.

As a participant, volunteer, or friend of PSRC, your participation in this campaign would be extremely meaningful to us and would help us finish our fiscal year in a strong position to continue serving the older adults in our community. Whatever you are able to give will be deeply worthwhile and greatly appreciated.

Thank you! Again, we invite you to make a DONATION. We are truly grateful for your gift. Your generosity is the fuel that empowers PSRC to change lives.

GrandPal PenPals

In 1997 a new partnership was formed between students at Littlebrook School and seniors in the community through Princeton Senior Resource Center called GrandPals. Every year since then kindergarten students were paired with volunteers who came weekly to the Littlebrook Library to share a love of reading. It has been one of our most beloved programs and has spread to all four elementary schools in the district.
